Does a cabinet look good with white baseboards

Overview

There are definitely some warm white combinations that work well together (which we'll get to shortly), but your best, most pain-free chance of using two different whites is if one of them is a true white or darn close (90+ LRV). Tongue and groove baseboards achieve the look of a flush base, while purposefully larger baseboards increase an interior's height and proportion, making for a standout presence. There is no right or wrong answer to whether your kitchen cabinets should match the baseboards. Let's dive in and make your dream. These 31 ideas will inspire you to upgrade your kitchen's look, adding a touch of elegance and style that dresses up your space effortlessly. From rustic farmhouse to sleek modern kitchens, going with lighter shades. When we think about colour combos that stand the test of time, black and white immediately comes to mind. But for those who prefer a less high-contrast look, there's another pairing that's equally timeless: white and wood.
