FDF Distribution Box Model

Overview

CommScope's FDF Rear load frame is built to ensure commonality with patch cord routing, slack storage and fiber protection. Available accessories include interbay management panels (IMPs), rear slack storage, etc. Corning Fiber Distribution Frames (FDF) are configurable interconnect or cross-connect frames. These ultra-high connector density frames are modular and customizable, enabling designs that can serve a wide variety of installation requirements. It is mainly used in data centers, telecommunications networks, large offices, or other high-speed communication networks. In structured cabling systems, ODFs are suitable for horizontal cabling between equipment or their terminations, as well as. Soltech is an innovative manufacture based in KOREA.
