Key Takeaways

Fiberglass cable trays in Myanmar typically range from $15 to $50 per meter, depending on type, size, and resin system.

Overview

Fiberglass cable trays, also known as FRP (Fiberglass Reinforced Plastic) or GFRP (Glass Fiber Reinforced Polymer) trays, are widely used in industrial, commercial, and chemical environments due to their corrosion resistance, lightweight, and non-conductive properties. They are suitable for voltage applications below 10kV and are available in various types, including ladder, perforated, and solid-bottom trays.

Price Factors

The cost of fiberglass cable trays in Myanmar depends on several factors: Tray Type: Ladder-type trays are generally less expensive than solid-bottom or enclosed trays due to material usage and manufacturing complexity. Size and Width: Standard widths range from 50mm to 700mm, with larger trays costing more per meter. Resin System: Polyester resin trays are usually cheaper, while vinyl ester resin trays, which offer higher chemical resistance, are more expensive.

Based on regional market trends and supplier listings: Small to medium trays (50–150mm width): $15–$25 per meterMedium to large trays (200–400mm width): $25–$40 per meterLarge trays (450–700mm width) or high-performance resin systems: $40–$50 per meter Prices may vary depending on shipping, import duties, and local availability in Myanmar.

Additional Considerations

Installation: Fiberglass trays are lightweight, reducing labor costs and installation time. Durability: Resistant to chemicals, moisture, and extreme temperatures, often with a lifetime guarantee from suppliers. Maintenance: Easy to clean and inspect, making them cost-effective over the long term.

For accurate pricing, it is recommended to contact local suppliers directly and request a quotation based on the specific tray type, width, and quantity required. Suppliers like TradeKey Myanmar and Al Mustaqbal Fiber Glass LLC provide bulk purchasing options and delivery services.
