UTE

X also manufactures custom patch cords with various connectors (SC, LC, FC) and lengths, meeting both domestic and international standards. Their products are widely used in telecommunications, high-speed internet networks, video surveillance, and industrial automation.

UTE

X emphasizes quality control, ISO certification, and compliance with Ukrainian standards, making it a reliable source for optical modules and fiber-optic components.

Other Notable Companies

Several other Ukrainian companies specialize in telecommunications equipment and OEM optical modules, including OmniLink and SIF VOLZ LLC, which provide high-speed internet solutions and fiber-optic network components. Additionally, Yuzhcable is a major manufacturer of cables and electrical equipment, capable of supplying optical and telecommunication infrastructure.

Summary

For optical module manufacturing in Ukraine, Polaris Vision Ukraine focuses on advanced imaging and optical devices, while UTEX Ukraine specializes in fiber-optic cables and related components. Both companies offer high-quality products for domestic and international markets, supporting applications in telecommunications, surveillance, and professional optical systems.
